

Agents of change

Congratulations to TY students Kayane Maciel, Leticia Rocha and Aoibhe McAllister who represented St. Oliver's in this year's Campaign Academy organised by Concern.

Over the past 6 months, the girls have attended climate change workshops in Dublin learning to plan and run their own campaign, communicating their ideas, engaging with politics and meeting students from other schools.

The girls' campaign involved trying to reduce the amount of paper plates and plastic cutlery used in our school canteen. They researched and gathered their data, spoke to various groups and encouraged students to bring their own cutlery to school.

The girls got to celebrate all their hard work by showcasing their campaign at the Agents of Change event in Croke Park on Friday 29th March with a fantastic performance.

The girls are looking forward to continuing their campaign and would like to thank Lauren Wright from Concern for all her help.
