

Transition year students visit Highlanes gallery

TY Students were invited to the Highlanes Gallery to a behind the scenes look at the current exhibition "One Day Something Happens". Curator Ann Jones, from the British arts council, spoke to the students about how art work is selected for an exhibition and how art works are displayed. Students got the chance to look at the work of some of Britians top artists, like David Hockney and Lucian Freud, the exhibition continues until mid February.
